New York—John W. Davis of West Virginia and Governor Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska may be called a surprise ticket because it came after an unprecedented deadlock, but it is nevertheless the logic of American politics. Without organization and management the two men who were selected to lead the democratic party won their honors. The delegates, however, and the voters, took four ballots after they had been refused from the platform. The delegates and the voters, in a last ditch effort, picked a ticket that was almost unanimously accepted.

Heat, Poison Will Rout Worms

Continued warm weather, along with remedial measures, will curb the rampant army worms in stock county.

An investigation was being made Friday by Prof. R. E. Vaughan, Wisconsin College of Agriculture, and samples of worms brought into the Farm Bureau office were nearly all identified as army worms. Doubt was expressed whether the white, cotton-like cocoons being found in mass of the hay and leucaena fields and even in the haylofts were from army worms. Rather, it was expressed these formations were the work of parasites called "Painted Ladies" that in the fly stage prey upon the army worm.

BRAZILIAN REBELS HOLD SAO PAULO AGAINST FEDERALS

REVOLUTIONISTS VICTORS, ACCORDING TO NEWS DISPATCHES.

MOVEMENT GROWS

Railroads Stilled and Telegraphic Communication Closely Censored.

His Janesville.—The government organ, Journal do Comercio, in an editorial this morning, declares the Sao Paulo revolt is practically conquered.

Montevideo, Uruguay.—According to anti-revolutionary advices received by wireless from Santos and Port Alegre, the Brazilian rebels are continuing successfully their operations, which are directed against the government of President Bernardes. It is stated they are in complete control of Sao Paulo and it is feared the movement may extend to all Brazil.

Natural enemies of the army worms are adding to keep the pest in check. Nature tends to maintain a wonderful balance in such a way as to reduce the number of pests and in addition providing for the insects, no harm to the plants, but which prey upon the pests devastating the fields.

Chief among the army worm parasites is a fly called the white, china-like eggs of which are often to be seen glued to the sides and neck of caterpillars. The maggots from these flies live inside the caterpillars of the worm and eventually cause their death. When, from weather conditions or some other cause, the pest is kept from being eaten down an invasion, such as damaged northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin, is the result.

In addition to the demonstration on the best methods to curb and kill the worms, at the Skinner farm yesterday afternoon there will be a session in the evening. Farmers are urged to attend these meetings to gain authentic information on the appearance of an infestation and how to combat it.

The worms soon die off in continued frost weather, for the worms migrate to the fields and are found active at night, and as they leave the tops of grain or plants until the last of the season. When the worms are found in the fields, the caterpillars cut off the heads of the grain and generally about the middle of the stalk, leaving something is wrong. The destruction goes on rapidly until, if not prevented, the caterpillars devour the entire crop.

The caterpillars start together and go on in great numbers, and as they move they leave a trail of dead leaves and grass. At the time of migration the worms are in a well advanced stage and only a few more days of feeding. This they do in the soil each year, one with the larvae maturing early in the spring, which sweep through the Wisconsin farms, and one in the fall, usually in September, which damages the corn.

The worm appears to be general throughout the southern half of the country. Farmers in Center township report the worms are in the fields but no great damage as yet to the crops.

Farmers should keep careful and constant watch to detect the worms. The Farmers' Bureau office issued a pamphlet last night, warning of the danger of the worms.

It is believed that the action of the executive committee of the national farmer-labor party, which has repudiated Senator Robert M. La Follette as the party's presidential candidate, it was declared today by Dan Hogan, chairman of the state convention of the farmer-labor party.

Both are drawn along lines to meet with recent developments in the motor vehicle advancement. It was stated. A dimming law has been enacted in Illinois. It was brought out, and such was suggested for other states. This would include an apparatus to be used to mark the extreme left of the vehicle to prevent collisions and accidents.

RASPBERRIES AND CHERRIES ARRIVE

Cherries, currents, red and black raspberries and gooseberries are among the new home grown fruits on local markets this week-end, and others are expected within a few days. They are rapidly replacing strawberries, which for the past week have almost excluded other fruits.

Home grown cherries are uniformly 12 1/2 cents a quart, of 17 1/2 cents, and are of excellent quality. There has been only moderate call for them for canning purposes as yet, as it is almost sure that prices will be considerably lower, despite the small crop predicted. Red raspberries are 25 to 30 cents pint, and the black kind, about 10 cents lower.

Strawberries will probably last until the middle of next week, merchants say, and a few late ones will be on the market for at least another week, but not in quantities large enough for canning purposes.

New Transpacific apples made their appearance this week, selling at 10 cents a pound. Both Georgia and California peaches are included in the shipped-in fruits this week, and are selling at the reasonable price of 35 cents dozen, or 29 to 30 cents basket. California seedling green grapes are 25 cents pound, while plums, in yellow, blue and red varieties, are 13 to 15 cents dozen. Apricots are cheaper, and sell at the same prices as plums. Black cherries bring 45 to 50 cents.

Home grown items in the vegetable line are cauliflower at 17 to 20 cents each; carrots, 10 cents bunch; beets, 10 cents; green onions, 5 cents; radishes, 5 cents, and leaf lettuce, 5 cents.

Practically all of the apparatus now on the market is being shipped here now, merchants say, and the line has stayed at its high level, which failed to drop even during the home-grown season. Tomatoes are only 5 to 7 cents under their early spring price, at 23 to 25 cents pound. Egg plant are 17 to 20 cents each.

Quality Trucks Beat the Snow Drifts

BACK last winter when big snows had blocked the Wisconsin roads, Quality trucks, loaded with fresh Quality Cookies and Crackers, plowed through the great snow drifts and supplied every customer on schedule time.

On certain days our trucks did not get back to the Quality home until midnight—on one occasion it was four o'clock in the morning, but every grocer was served with cookies, oven-crisp and delicious. That's one reason for the increasing demand for Quality Cookies and Crackers.

The boys' band will play during the supper hour near the pavilion. This will make it more attractive for the people of Janesville and the surrounding country to come with their families and bring basket lunches.

Everything is being planned to make the opening a big event of the summer. A dance is to be held in the evening, with arrangements made for an overflow crowd. A well known orchestra is to be procured.

Free golf will be permitted during the day. Proceeds from concessions and dances are to go toward fitting up the golf course.

Good Bye Dick; Good Bye Charley!

Janesville is going to say good bye to two old friends Saturday and we are glad it is to be done with some ceremony. While a horse may be a horse, you cannot just turn this team loose and let it go after having been a part of the city family so long, without at least one final caress.
 So, when Janesville says good bye to Dick and Charley, fire horses, we shall also say good bye to years of established precedence and custom, of heroism, and deeds and duty done well and faithfully.

For Dick and Charley are more than two horses.
 They are the last of a race—the last, like Cooper's Mohican, and Macculey's last white man sitting amid the ruins of London. The fire horse has been a hero for nearly a century. In peace he took the place of the warrior's steed. He is, or was, coincident with modern fire fighting methods and equipment. He had most of the human attributes except talking politics and chowing tobacco and there are cases where he acquired this habit. With arched necks, nostrils distended, chests expanded, strong limbed, galloping down streets, turning sharp corners, threading crowds, overcoming obstacles, these fire teams excited lyric poetry, and thrilled their audience with the magnificent cadence and certainty of movement.

This most dependable companion of mankind has filled literature's pages, inspired a David and a Messianic, and been the theme of other painters and sculptors. Your blood moves faster as you see Marshall Ney at the head of his chassours, Murat charging with his dragons, Dessaix with the Old Guard at Waterloo in the sunken road of Ohain; Sheridan riding to Winchester, Jeb Stuart dashing a whole army on a raid north—why, all the picturesque in war and history seems to be with the horse, from the Crusaders to Balaklava and since.

But into the shadows of yesterday go the pictures of grandmother at the spinning wheel making yarns for clothing; the corn mill at the door; the cobbler who made a half sole while machinery now is filling a whole case with shoes; the ox team and the mail order buggy, and at last the fire horse passes into the attic of memory.

What boy is there who has not been through this grief of parting? There was your horse raised by you from a colt. You had taught him the halter and then the harness; you had curried him until his coat shone like burnished bronze in the sun; and he in his way had learned to nuzzle your face and tease for sugar. And then to find out that, after all, he was sold and going! Never mind the tears now; they are good, honest tears and you wouldn't be worth much if they did not well up from somewhere down in your soul when you heard the last whinny as that horse of yours, following the end of a halter, went trotting off behind the buckboard to stay away forever—like an Uncle Tom, sold into slavery.

And so when we say good bye to Dick and Charley and the long troops of memories come back to us it may be that we shall be forgiven a tear.

One of the funny things about politics is that the loudest demand for more liberty comes from those who want more laws forbidding things.

Riverside Park.

More and more people are beginning to realize what Riverside park means to Janesville. With the municipal golf course and the ideal picknickgrounds it should grow in popularity. As the time passes and the facilities for utilizing the park to the very utmost are developed, this pleasure ground will be more and more the play and recreation place for the public. What is needed is a caretaker constantly on the ground and a few good roads and paths through the woods and over the high ground will add to its attractiveness.
 These will all come with time.

And now there is worry among the leaguepho-bians as to whether the defeat of Davis will not be a defeat of the league. No use raising that issue. The league was defeated by the democratic convention when the Baker amendment to the platform was defeated.

One of the highest compliments to Calvin Coolidge is that so one has yet called him. "That peerless leader."

"The lady," said McCarthy in one of Bret Harte's pleasing stories of California mining life, "tried to ride two horses going in opposite directions at the same time—and failed." John M.
 Nelson is a republican candidate for congress in lette-socialist campaign committee.

MARRIED WOMEN WHO WORK.

By FRUENHIC J. HASKIN.

Washington.—Who remembers the old song beginning "Everybody works but father"? It was very much the vogue some time ago and was regarded as highly humorous. These are days in which the government is investigating everything under the sun and apparently some one has dug up the old ballad because the ever-alert department of labor has made a special report obviously taken from the theme of the popular song. It has to do with married women who have jobs.
 Of course the department does not make any undignified aspersions against "father." It doesn't go so far as to say that father hasn't a job too, but with only half an eye anyone can see that what prompted the investigation was the idea presented by the line: "Everybody works but father."

And the interesting thing about the report is it indicates that, whatever father may be doing, mother is working harder today than she did when the song was written. The employment of married women in industrial pursuits is decidedly on the increase, according to the figures. In 1920 only five in every 100 married women had outside jobs. In 1920 nine in every hundred were employed.

The population of the country has been increasing and this increase in population really means a very large gain in actual numbers employed. In 1920, 515,000 married women were employed in industry while in 1920 the number had increased to 2,000,000 or practically four-fold.

There is an age-old controversy among men and women as to which sex has the harder task.
 The old doggerel expresses it as well as any number of government reports. It says: "Man's work extends from sun to sun; woman's work is never done."

This couplet was written long before anyone ever dreamed of the eight hour day. Edna St.
 Vincent Millay or some such modern woman poet might rewrite the verse to read something like this: "Man's work is from eight to four;
 woman's is an endless chore."

Or, if one insists that the man worker gets no hour off for lunch the rhyme might run: "Man's work is from eight to five; woman slaves to keep alive."

As office workers do not go to work before nine o'clock this would have to be amended to fit the case, so Eleanor Wiley or Gertrude Stein or some of the other modern Sapphos probably would say:
 "Husband works from nine till six; woman does three strong men's tricks."

None of these observations can be found in the official document issued by the department of labor. They may be regarded as translations for the sentiment expressed by the Miltonic verses are what the department really means. One can sense all the way through the closely printed text and tables a feeling that the story ought to be told in a more dramatic and indignant manner.

Figures showing an increase in the number of married women who have jobs do not mean necessarily that there are more of the stenographer type.
 When woman first entered the business world it was in the capacity of stenographer or private secretary. The field has greatly broadened.

During the past decade there has been a notable increase in the number of married women employed in the mechanical industries devoted to manufacturing. In this group, although all women employed increased only 7 per cent, the number of married women shows an increase of 41 per cent. In occupations connected with trade there has been in the last decade an increase of 21 per cent for all women and an increase of 88 per cent for married women.

These figures spell a rebellion against the drudgery of housework and a preference for manufacturing and mercantile tasks. The fact that in the period under review, when these tremendous increases were taking place in the industrial fields, there was a decrease of 12 per cent in the number of married women employed in domestic service, is eloquent of this fact.

There is much material for study in such figures as these. The preference for work in the industries doubtless springs very largely from the desire of some women to get out of the kitchen, but it is true that many women perform their household tasks and hold positions also. To be sure, the desire of the married woman for some measure of economic independence or her need of helping to make ends meet exert an influence.

The department report undertakes to moralize a little on the motives of these married women and attempts to find out what women have gained by this exodus from the home. The conclusion is reached that the women who go out to work largely because, in addition to housework, they can lay up money to insure the health and the education of their children.

The report asks which is the greater evil, the loss of the mother in the home or the poverty which is kept at arm's length by the additional wage she brings to the family budget? The department of labor is not ready to answer this.
 Studies must be made to determine whether juvenile delinquency and infant mortality are larger in the families where the mother is employed.
 Whether the health and educational opportunities of the children are improved because of the additional source of income and allied subjects.

Some figures at hand would indicate that a great deal must be shown on the credit side to balance the losses. In Manchester, the mortality among babies whose mothers went out to work in the first year of the babies' lives was 22.5 per thousand compared with only 13.9 per thousand for babies whose mothers remained at home. In New Bedford the rate was 16.7 for the babies of working mothers and only 10.8 for those of mothers who remained at home.

An index of what the additional money does mean, however, is infant mortality figures for Akron, where the rubber industry pays higher wages to women than the textile industries of Manchester and New Bedford. In Akron the rate for the babies of working mothers was 8.2 per thousand and for babies of home-staying women 71.2. It is difficult to compare these figures absolutely because precise information is not available as to what the rate would have been had the children of the particular mothers who went to work had they not had the extra income. The pressure of poverty may have been so great that they had remained at home perhaps without adequate food the rate would have been still higher.

It may be claimed concerning the figures of the children of the home-staying mothers that their poverty was not so very great or they would not have been able to stay at home. The department is studying all these difficult questions and presumably in a few years will have valuable data showing whether the married woman in industry is a national asset or whether her absence from the home means an infant mortality loss overbalancing her contribution of labor.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE HUNGRY MIND

He never reads a book nor cares
 To look beyond the day's affairs.
 The thoughts of dreamers, old or new,
 He has no wish to wander through.
 Fill up his hours with meriment,
 And he will laugh and be content.

His stomach hungered for meat,
 And with delight his food he'll eat;
 Or should by chance he miss a meal,
 The loss of it he'll plainly feel;
 Or, over-stuffed the night before,
 The morrow finds him back for more.

Strange, is it not, that he will take Such care for just his stomach's sake, Yet in his system cannot find
 The cravings of a hungry mind?
 He'll never read, but one day
 Will warn him of a starving brain.

Oh, there are many like him here Who follow pleasure far or near,
 And treat themselves to wine and bread,
 And leave their intellects unled.
 They'll fill their stomachs, praise the cook,
 And then refuse the mind a book!

HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, JULY 12, 1924.

This should be a very fortunate day, according to astrology. Venus, Mars and Jupiter are all in benefic aspect.

Women come under a specially lucky direction of the stars making for great ability in understanding large tasks.
 Women will need the aid and co-operation of men in all their activities, but never before, owing to the growth of power among national organizations.

Happy years probably will follow weddings which take place today, for constancy, prosperity and long life are promised by the planets.

Greater interest in the theater, than ever before is to be manifested during the remainder of the year, but with the production of many plays will be little growth of the art of acting, the actors' profession.

Mars in friendly sway promises much constructive work in preparing for winter's tasks.
 Education, sanitation and good government are to be strongly stressed.

There is a sign interpreted as presaging the rise to fame of an orator who tells unpleasant truths to the American people.
 Surprises in the result of the presidential election are foretold.

The death of a prominent man may have an unexpected effect on the public mind.
 There is again a warning sign for the Prince of Wales who may suffer another accident or severe illness.

The conjunction of Mars and Uranus, November 27, which falls on the cusp of the ninth house at London, indicates serious troubles, sacrifice and blasphemy.

Professions will be famed to fame in the United States during the next few weeks and again riots and disturbances of various sorts are foretold.

Persons whose birthdate is 11 have a happy outlook for the year. Those who are employed probably will be promoted or will receive increased salaries.

Children born on this day are likely to be extraordinarily keen of mind and reliable in character. Their subjects of concern are generally successful in whatever they undertake.
 Romantic courtships for girls are indicated.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author.

THE FUEL IS WRONG, NOT THE OIL

The human machine, especially when it is brand new, requires a particular kind of fuel, pure, high grade fuel for satisfactory working. But contrary to a popular notion it requires no oil at all. Unlike the flying, the human machine is automatic in lubrication. To the average professional nurse or doctor, prescription it probably seems strange that such a complicated process as alimentation—the ingestion and absorption of nutriment and the excre-tion of the human machine—should go on smoothly without even occasional oiling, especially in the case of the baby. But we must remember that these people are equipped with a morbid premise, namely, that because

Farm Bureau Official Information

PROPOSE COUNTY GUERNSEY MARKET

Breeders Discuss Collective Selling of Guernsey Dairy Products.

Consolidation for the marketing of all Guernsey dairy products in Rock county by the cattle owners is being discussed during the meeting of the Guernsey breeders at the John Cooper farm near Avalon, Thursday. Thirty breeders attended.

The plan for the establishing of a central plant in Janesville to receive the milk that meets the Guernsey market standard to be sold throughout the county as Guernsey milk, cream, butter and cheese. Trucks would be used to distribute the milk to other cities and villages in the county.

W. J. Dougan, Beloit, favored the plan and offered to turn over his $22,000 milk business if such a collective marketing system was established for Guernsey products. Others spoke in favor of the plan.

A. G. Albertz, Madison, discussed the necessity of reducing the cost of selling and production rather than the increasing of cost to the consumer.

It takes a time of depression to bring farmers to the realization that something must be done to improve dairy and agricultural methods. The production of marketing, it was declared. Growing of home feeds, alfalfa and legumes, the cutting of corn for silo filling at the proper time, the use of maximum feed results—when the corn was "just ripe" and in the old day was ready for siloing—and higher production cows through test records were discussed as some of the methods to cut production costs.

J. C. Nisbet, Rock county livestock agent, told of the 1921 show herd plans, and H. C. Henningsway, secretary of the Farm Bureau, also spoke on county development work.

High praise was given to the 40 head of grade Guernsey herd on the Cooper farm.

Indians—A state game refuge, including more than 100,000 acres of land in northern Wisconsin, is being proposed by Governor Blaine in a campaign speech here today. The project was one of the main features of an extensive tour of the state which the executive declared he favors.

The sea-sucker turns itself inside out when it wants to hide.

Bible and Fruit Canning Combined in Church Plan
Madison—Bible instruction and fruit canning go hand in hand in rural religious work, in the opinion of the Rev. Olaus Meyer, missionary in Chongqing county, New York. The Rev. Mr. Meyer told the national inter-church rural conference at its closing session here today that he practices such a combination.

Mr. Meyer accomplishes the feat through home bureaus, which have been established throughout the country in conjunction with Cornell university. He advocated the establishment of such bureaus in rural communities throughout the nation. The bureaus are designed to give farm women household instruction and farmers, assistance along agricultural lines.

A home bureau agent, supplied by Cornell university, teaches the farm people along agricultural and household lines and Mr. Meyer teaches the Bible lessons. Once every two weeks, he declares, he gives women of a community a lesson while they are in the process of canning fruit or doing some other practical work.

Supervised recreation is the solution of the rural religious problem, in Mr. Meyer's estimation.

Recreation Is Needed
"Young people in rural communities want recreation," Mr. Meyer, who was a stock broker before he became a missionary, declared. "Rural churches will find supervised recreation much more desirable than prevention of recreation. The dance, properly supervised, is one of the best recreational measures to develop community spirit. Unless the young people have wholesome recreation, they will seek the unwholesome."

Starting a county fire department and association was one of Mr. Meyer's principal methods of stimulating community organization. He declares the county association now includes 30 local fire companies, averaging 50 members each. The minister is president of the association.

Co-operative Groups
Assembling of church denominations into state-wide co-operative groups in rural church activities was advocated by Prof. J. H. Kolb, of the University of Wisconsin and director of the national conference, in his address to the convention. Prof. Kolb declared that such groups would necessarily be composed of associated churches, such as various divisions of the Lutheran churches.

"There cannot be organic union of all churches, at least for the present," Prof. Kolb said. "Churches closely associated and of the same kind only

Increased Crowd

Listens to Band

Fine weather and an excellent program attracted a crowd surpassing that which attended either of the former two performances, at the third concert of the Bower City band in the rear of the court house park Thursday night. Cars were parked in double rows on the four streets surrounding the back section of the park. Hundreds stood under the trees to listen. Bouquets came in abundance to Frank Fisher, a member of the high school boys' band, who gave a cornet solo. The feature number of the evening, after responding to an encore, he was presented with a bunch of roses by a representative of the girls' band and had not yet reached his seat when called to the edge of the platform to take from his own organization, the senior boys' band, a bunch of onions and cabbage leaves. The demonstration ended with a cheer for him by members of the high school organization, which sat in a body near by. The William Tell overture and a medley of Foster's numbers were among those most appreciated by the audience, as indicated by the applause.

Some of the problems which Prof. Kolb outlined for future consideration of rural clergy were: Location of rural churches in strategic positions; over-churching and under-churching; to be determined by population of the community and location of churches where business volume is sufficient to make the church a success.

Madison will be the seat of another national rural church conference next summer. Tentative plans worked out today by the conference council. Definite arrangements will be left to Prof. Kolb and university officials.

SNOW BOUND ROADS INJURY TO SCHOOL

State Supervisor Urges Parents Vote in Officials Who Will Keep Roads Open.

"If some of the summer road money were spent on winter roads, we would have less trouble getting country children to school in winter," declared George S. Dick, state rural school supervisor, during a question and answer conference at the county school board convention here Thursday afternoon.

Transportation was involved in more questions asked by school officers, than in any other problem affecting the schools. One director, whose district had closed its school and arranged to transport pupils to an adjoining district school, wanted to know what could be done about children who were separated most of the winter from educational opportunity by a half mile of impassable road, and whose parents refused to have the little ones walk this distance to stand in the cold awaiting the arrival of the school bus. Mr. Dick said the law requires that when a district discontinues its own school, transportation must be provided from the homes of the children to another school, and that parents cannot be compelled to send their children beyond the entrance from a public highway to the farm home. He explained further that the distance from which parents are required to provide their own transportation or have children walk to a school in their own single district is two miles, while the distance requirement for a consolidated district is one mile.

Use the Ballot!
He urged that in the case of road conditions preventing a school bus from calling for children at their homes, parents should not sacrifice the children's interests by keeping them out of school if they themselves could supplement the efforts of the school officers in solving the problem. The real solution of the problem, he said in answer to another question is that parents work for the election of town and county officials who will find a way to keep roads open. In the meantime, the welfare of the children demands that parents cooperate in every possible way with school officers to get the children to school despite road conditions, or transportation legalities.

Dr. T. Bowman, state board of health, gave an address at the afternoon session on "Communicable Diseases." He stressed the importance of excluding from school, children who might be suspected of having a communicable disease. The teacher, he said has not only the right to exclude such children but it is her duty. Parents may take an excluded child to the town health officer for free examination, or to their family physician, he said. The teacher is not required to receive an excluded child in school until a certificate is presented from the health officer or other physician. He urged better school sanitation, adequate ventilation and pure-water as aids to child health.

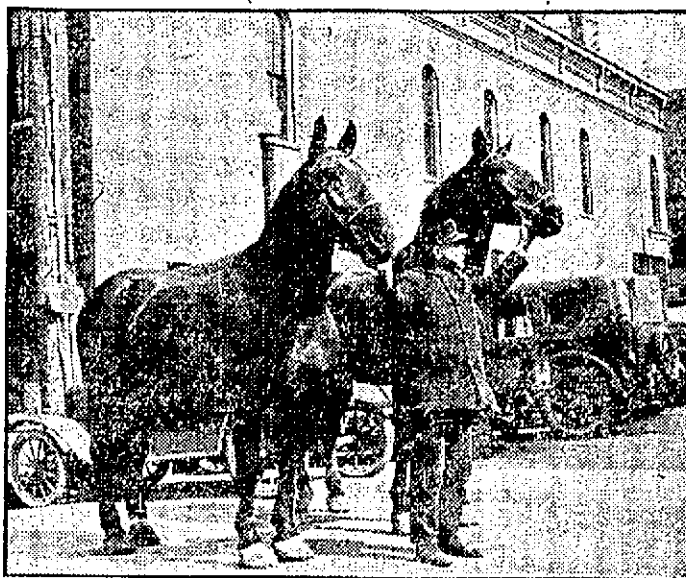

Beware Rainbows

"Don't chase rainbows in this matter of health," said Dr. Bowman, "but accept the simple demonstrated facts of science and use this knowledge to prevent communicable diseases. When we realize that one child dies from whooping cough every 25 hours, and one child is the victim of measles every 27 hours in the state of Wisconsin, we appreciate the need of better control of disease. These and other diseases that attack the young not only take their toll in death but leave a trail of weakened constitutions and are one of the chief contributing factors in filling our public institutions."

Dr. Bowman explained the reasons for the movement to provide iodine tablets for school children as a goitre preventive measure. He said that lack of iodine in the drinking water of Wisconsin is regarded as chief cause of goitre in children and that it has been demonstrated that the use of small doses of iodine is a safe and harmless preventive measure.

JANESVILLE SAYS 'WELL DONE, GOOD AND FAITHFUL SERVANTS'

"Charlie," "Dick" and T. Canner James Casey.

Jack and Jill ran up the hill to fetch a pail of water, but Charlie and Dick ran everywhere to fetch the hose for water. And everywhere that Charlie and Dick went, the folks were there, breath spent.

For Charlie and Dick have been the "old faithfuls" of the Janesville fire department, the horses that draw the apparatus.

Now they are going to other work. But before they quit the stalls, leave the fondlings of the fire ladies.

Mrs. Florence Hyde, Gazette Good Times club editor, spoke briefly of the plans of this organization for the coming year. Activities looking toward greater cooperation between the school and the home will have large place in the program of the Gazette community service during the next school year, she said. Patron's reading circle work, more community and parent's meetings in the schools, and better school equipment are some of the objectives that will be sought. Students of the county normal school furnished a group of entertaining vocal numbers under the direction of Miss Louise Jacobson, with Mrs. Myrtle Appel Clarke at the piano. The convention was pronounced one of the best in the history of Rock county. Supervisor Dick commented on the attentive attitude of all present and the deep interest manifested in the problems affecting rural school education.

You Might as Well Have a Leaky Tank

THE cost and inconvenience of frequent carbon cleaning are bad enough—but they aren't a marker to the hidden evil that carbon causes—the leakage and power loss from clogged valve action and poor seating. The excess of gasoline that they force you to feed into your motor is as definite a loss as if you had a leak in your gas tank.

Cheap motor fuel is overloaded with excess carbon. It is incapable of complete burning and bound to leave drifts of carbon behind to coat your pistons and clog your valves.

Wadhams True Gasoline

is different. It is chemically correct, each atom of carbon having its proper mate of hydrogen to insure an explosion that leaves no nasty souvenirs behind it.

Your valves seat properly, without leakage. You use only enough gas to fill your combustion chamber—not all outdoors. Even the slight trace of carbon that you may find after a long period of running comes from your burned up lubricating oil and not from your gasoline.
